Understanding a Beauty Salon Partnership Agreement

A beauty salon partnership agreement sample serves as a formal contract between two or more individuals who agree to operate a beauty salon business together. This document outlines the rights, responsibilities, and obligations of each partner involved. It ensures that all parties have a mutual understanding regarding the management and financial aspects of the salon. Without such an agreement, partners may face misunderstandings or conflicts that can disrupt business operations. The agreement acts as a roadmap for decision-making, profit sharing, and conflict resolution.

Purpose and Benefits

The primary purpose of a beauty salon partnership agreement is to provide clarity and legal protection for all partners. It helps define the scope of the partnership and sets expectations for each party. Key benefits include:

- Clear definition of each partner's role and contribution
- Structured profit and loss distribution
- Established procedures for decision-making and dispute resolution
- Protection of individual interests in the event of partnership dissolution
- Legal documentation that supports enforceability of the partnership terms

Key Components of a Beauty Salon Partnership Agreement

A well-drafted beauty salon partnership agreement sample contains several critical elements that address the operational and financial aspects of the business. These components ensure transparency and provide a framework for managing the salon effectively.

Capital Contributions

This section specifies the initial and ongoing financial contributions each partner will make. It includes cash, equipment, or other assets invested in the salon. Clearly defining capital contributions prevents future disputes over ownership percentages and financial obligations.

Profit and Loss Distribution

The agreement must detail how profits and losses will be shared among partners. This can be based on the percentage of capital contributed, equal shares, or another agreed-upon formula. Accurate provisions here help avoid misunderstandings regarding financial rewards and liabilities.

Roles and Responsibilities

Assigning specific roles and duties to each partner ensures smooth day-to-day management. This section may cover operational tasks such as managing staff, handling finances, marketing, or purchasing supplies. Clear role delineation promotes accountability.

Decision-Making Process

Establishing a decision-making mechanism defines how major business choices will be made. This may involve voting rights proportional to ownership or unanimous consent for critical decisions. Ensuring a fair process prevents deadlocks and facilitates efficient management.

Duration and Termination

The agreement should specify the partnership's duration and conditions under which it can be ended. This includes voluntary withdrawal, bankruptcy, or breach of contract. Clear termination clauses provide a roadmap for dissolving the partnership without unnecessary disputes.

Legal Considerations and Requirements

When drafting a beauty salon partnership agreement sample, legal compliance is crucial. The agreement must align with state and local laws governing business partnerships and salon operations. Understanding these legal requirements can safeguard the business and its partners from potential liabilities.

Business Registration and Licensing

Operating a beauty salon partnership requires proper registration and licensing. The agreement should acknowledge compliance with relevant cosmetology board regulations and business permits. Failure to comply can result in fines or closure of the salon.

Liability and Insurance

Partners are typically jointly liable for business debts and legal claims. The agreement should address liability issues and recommend obtaining appropriate insurance coverage such as general liability and professional liability policies to protect the business and individual partners.

Dispute Resolution

Including a dispute resolution clause is essential for addressing conflicts that may arise between partners. Common methods include mediation, arbitration, or litigation. Specifying the preferred approach helps resolve issues efficiently and minimizes business disruption.

Common Clauses in a Beauty Salon Partnership Agreement

A beauty salon partnership agreement sample typically incorporates several standard clauses that clarify operational guidelines and protect partner interests. Understanding these clauses helps in customizing the agreement to fit specific business needs.

Non-Compete Clause

This clause restricts partners from engaging in competing beauty salon businesses within a defined geographic area and time frame after leaving the partnership. It helps protect the salon's client base and market position.

Confidentiality Clause

Confidentiality provisions prevent partners from disclosing sensitive business information such as client lists, pricing strategies, and trade secrets. This maintains the salon's competitive advantage and trust among partners.

Buyout and Exit Strategy

Defining buyout terms and exit procedures ensures a smooth transition if a partner decides to leave. This includes valuation methods for the departing partner's share and payment terms. A clear exit strategy reduces the risk of disputes and financial hardship.

Capital Improvement and Additional Investments

This clause outlines how decisions regarding additional capital infusions or major salon improvements will be handled, including whether all partners must agree or if contributions will be voluntary. It maintains financial stability and fairness.

Sample Structure of a Beauty Salon Partnership Agreement

While each partnership agreement should be customized, a typical beauty salon partnership agreement sample follows a structured format that covers all essential aspects. Below is an example outline of such a document:

1. Introduction: Identification of partners and formation of the partnership
2. Business Details: Salon name, location, and nature of services
3. Capital Contributions: Initial investments and ownership percentages
4. Profit and Loss Sharing: Distribution formula and timing
5. Management and Responsibilities: Roles and decision-making authority
6. Banking and Financial Records: Handling of accounts and bookkeeping
7. Dispute Resolution: Procedures for conflict management
8. Non-Compete and Confidentiality: Protection of business interests
9. Duration and Termination: Conditions for dissolution and exit
10. Signatures: Execution by all partners

Tips for Drafting and Maintaining a Partnership Agreement

Creating an effective beauty salon partnership agreement sample requires careful consideration and collaboration among partners. Implementing best practices during drafting and ongoing maintenance can safeguard the business and the partnership relationship.

Consult Legal Professionals

Engaging an attorney experienced in business partnerships and the beauty industry ensures that the agreement complies with applicable laws and covers all necessary provisions. Professional guidance reduces risks and strengthens the contract.

Be Clear and Specific

Ambiguities in the agreement can lead to misunderstandings. Precise language and detailed descriptions of roles, financial arrangements, and procedures help create a clear and enforceable document.

Review and Update Regularly

Business conditions and partner circumstances may change over time. Periodic reviews and updates to the partnership agreement keep it relevant and reflective of current realities. Partners should agree on a schedule for such revisions.

Communicate Openly

Maintaining open communication among partners fosters trust and facilitates early identification of potential issues. Addressing concerns before they escalate contributes to a healthier partnership and business environment.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is a beauty salon partnership agreement sample?

A beauty salon partnership agreement sample is a template or example document outlining the terms and conditions agreed upon by partners who are starting or running a beauty salon together. It serves as a guide for creating a customized partnership contract.

Why is a partnership agreement important for a beauty salon business?

A partnership agreement is important because it clearly defines the roles, responsibilities, profit-sharing, decision-making processes, and dispute resolution methods between partners, helping to prevent misunderstandings and conflicts in the beauty salon business.

What key elements should be included in a beauty salon partnership agreement sample?

Key elements include the names of partners, business purpose, capital contributions, profit and loss distribution, management duties, decision-making authority, dispute resolution, duration of partnership, withdrawal or addition of partners, and termination clauses.

Can I use a general partnership agreement template for a beauty salon?

While a general partnership agreement template can be used as a starting point, it is advisable to customize it to address specific aspects of the beauty salon industry, such as equipment ownership, licensing, and specific service offerings.

Where can I find a reliable beauty salon partnership agreement sample?

Reliable beauty salon partnership agreement samples can be found on legal document websites, small business resources, or through consultation with a business attorney who can provide tailored agreements.

How can a partnership agreement sample help in resolving disputes in a beauty salon partnership?

A partnership agreement sample outlines clear procedures for dispute resolution, such as mediation or arbitration, and specifies how disagreements will be handled, which helps partners resolve conflicts efficiently without harming the business.

Is it necessary to have a written partnership agreement for a beauty salon?

While not always legally required, having a written partnership agreement is highly recommended to ensure all partners are on the same page and to legally protect each partner's rights and investments in the beauty salon.

How often should partners review or update their beauty salon partnership agreement?

Partners should review or update their partnership agreement regularly, especially when there are significant changes in the business such as new partners joining, changes in capital contributions, or adjustments in management roles.

Can a beauty salon partnership agreement sample include clauses about partner exit or buyout?

Yes, a comprehensive beauty salon partnership agreement sample typically includes clauses detailing the procedures for a partner's exit, buyout terms, valuation of shares, and how the business will continue after a partner leaves.

Securing Your Success: The Ultimate Guide to Beauty Salon Partnership Agreements

Starting a beauty salon can be incredibly rewarding, but navigating the complexities of a partnership requires careful planning and a robust legal framework. A well-drafted partnership agreement is not just a formality; it's the cornerstone of a successful and harmonious business relationship. This comprehensive guide will delve into the crucial elements of a beauty salon partnership agreement, providing you with the knowledge and tools to protect your investment and ensure a prosperous future.

Introduction: The Importance of a Solid Partnership Agreement

Launching a beauty salon with a partner offers several advantages: shared resources, complementary skills, and a reduced financial burden. However, without a clearly defined partnership agreement, potential conflicts and misunderstandings can quickly derail your business.

A comprehensive agreement serves as a roadmap, outlining the roles, responsibilities, and expectations of each partner, minimizing disputes and ensuring a smooth-running operation. This agreement acts as a legal contract, protecting both partners from future disagreements and providing a clear path forward should unforeseen circumstances arise. Think of it as an insurance policy for your business relationship. Ignoring this vital step can lead to costly legal battles, damaged friendships, and the ultimate failure of your venture.

Chapter 1: Defining the Partnership: Roles, Responsibilities, and Contributions

This chapter focuses on clearly defining each partner's role within the salon. This goes beyond simply stating "Partner A handles marketing" and "Partner B manages finances." It should detail specific tasks, responsibilities, and expected hours of work. For example:

Specific Job Titles: Assign clear job titles (e.g., Managing Partner, Operations Manager, Marketing Director) to delineate responsibilities.

Detailed Task Lists: Create comprehensive lists outlining daily, weekly, and monthly tasks for each partner.

Decision-Making Authority: Specify the decision-making process for various aspects of the business (e.g., hiring, purchasing equipment, marketing campaigns). Will decisions be made jointly, or will one partner have ultimate authority in specific areas?

Contributions (Capital and In-Kind): Clearly outline each partner's financial contribution (initial investment, ongoing capital injections), as well as contributions in kind (e.g., equipment, salon space, expertise). Document the valuation of these contributions to ensure fairness.

Ownership Percentage: Specify each partner's ownership percentage in the salon, reflecting their contributions and agreed-upon equity split.

Chapter 2: Financial Aspects: Investment, Profit Sharing, and Expenses

Financial transparency is paramount in any partnership. This section outlines how the business will manage its finances:

Initial Investment: Detail the amount each partner contributes initially, including the form of contribution (cash, equipment, etc.).

Ongoing Capital Contributions: Specify if and when additional capital contributions will be required from partners. Include details on how these contributions will be managed and accounted for.

Profit Sharing: Clearly define how profits (and losses) will be distributed among partners. Will it be an equal split, or will it be based on ownership percentage or individual contributions? Specify the frequency of profit distribution (e.g., monthly, quarterly, annually).

Expense Allocation: Outline how business expenses will be paid and allocated among partners. Will there be a designated account for business expenses, or will each partner handle specific expenses? Specify procedures for expense reporting and reimbursement.

Salary or Draws: Determine if partners will receive salaries or regular draws from the business, and specify the amounts and payment schedules.

Accounting Practices: Outline the accounting methods that will be used, including the frequency of financial reports and access to financial information for each partner.

Chapter 3: Operational Procedures: Day-to-day Management and Decision-Making

This section addresses the day-to-day running of the salon:

Daily Operations: Detail the responsibilities for managing daily operations, including scheduling appointments, managing staff, handling customer service, and overseeing inventory.

Hiring and Firing: Establish a clear process for hiring and firing employees, including who has the authority to make these decisions.

Purchasing Decisions: Specify the process for purchasing equipment, supplies, and other resources, including who has the authority to approve purchases.

Marketing and Advertising: Outline the marketing and advertising strategy, including who is responsible for implementing and managing these activities.

Conflict Resolution: Establish a process for resolving disagreements between partners, potentially including mediation or arbitration.

Chapter 4: Intellectual Property and Confidentiality

Protecting intellectual property and maintaining confidentiality are crucial in any business partnership:

Ownership of Intellectual Property: Clarify the ownership of any existing intellectual property brought into the partnership (e.g., salon name, logos, marketing materials) and any new intellectual property created during the partnership.

Confidentiality Clause: Include a clause that prohibits partners from disclosing confidential information about the business to third parties.

Non-Compete Clause: Consider including a non-compete clause to prevent partners from competing with the salon during and after the partnership. This should be carefully drafted to comply with local laws.

Chapter 5: Dispute Resolution and Termination Clauses

Anticipating potential conflicts and establishing a clear resolution process is essential:

Dispute Resolution: Outline a process for resolving disputes, such as mediation or arbitration, to avoid costly litigation.

Termination Clause: Detail the conditions under which the partnership can be terminated, including the process for dissolving the partnership and distributing assets. This should include buy-out clauses, outlining how a departing partner's share will be valued and purchased.

Chapter 6: Legal and Regulatory Compliance

Ensure compliance with all relevant legal and regulatory requirements:

Business Licenses and Permits: Confirm that all necessary business licenses and permits are obtained and maintained.

Tax Obligations: Specify how tax obligations will be handled, including the allocation of tax responsibilities.

Employee Regulations: Ensure compliance with all relevant employment laws and regulations.

Insurance: Specify the types of insurance the business will carry, including liability insurance and workers' compensation insurance.

Chapter 7: Sample Partnership Agreement

This chapter includes a sample partnership agreement that partners can adapt to their specific needs. Remember: This is a sample only and should be reviewed by legal counsel before use. Legal requirements vary by jurisdiction.

Conclusion: Protecting Your Investment and Ensuring a Successful Partnership

A comprehensive partnership agreement is a vital safeguard for your beauty salon business. By addressing crucial aspects like roles, responsibilities, finances, operations, and dispute resolution, you can lay the foundation for a successful and harmonious partnership. Remember that investing time and resources in creating a well-drafted agreement will protect your investment, minimize potential conflicts, and maximize your chances of achieving your business goals. Don't hesitate to seek legal counsel to ensure your agreement adequately protects your interests and complies with all applicable laws.

FAQs

1. What happens if one partner wants to leave the partnership? The termination clause in your agreement will outline the process, including buy-out options and asset distribution.
2. How do we decide on profit sharing? This should be agreed upon before the partnership begins and clearly stated in the agreement, reflecting each partner's contribution and investment.
3. Do we need a lawyer to draft the agreement? While you can use a template, it's strongly recommended to have a lawyer review and adapt it to your specific circumstances to ensure legal compliance.
4. What if one partner doesn't fulfill their responsibilities? The agreement should outline consequences for breach of contract, including potential penalties or termination of the partnership.
5. How do we handle disagreements? The agreement should outline a dispute resolution process, such as mediation or arbitration, to avoid lengthy and costly legal battles.
6. What kind of insurance do we need? Liability insurance, workers' compensation insurance, and potentially property insurance are essential for protecting the business.
7. How often should we review the partnership agreement? It's advisable to review and update the agreement periodically (e.g., annually) to reflect changes in the business or the partners' circumstances.
8. Can we change the partnership agreement later? Yes, but this requires the written consent of all partners and should be documented as an amendment to the original agreement.
9. What if one partner becomes incapacitated or dies? The agreement should address these contingencies, outlining procedures for managing the business and transferring ownership.

beauty salon partnership agreement sample: Love's Promises Martha M. Ertman, 2016-05-24 Blends memoir and legal cases to show how contracts can create family relationships. Most people think of love and contracts as strange bedfellows, or even opposites. In Love's Promises, however, law professor Martha Ertman shows that far from cold and calculating, contracts shape and sustain families. Blending memoir and law, Ertman delves into the legal cases, anecdotes, and history of family law to show that love comes in different packages, each shaped by different contracts and mini-contracts she calls "deals." Family law should and often does recognize that variety because legal rules, like relationships, aren't one size fits all. The most common form of family—which Ertman calls "Plan A"—come into being through different kinds of agreements than the more uncommon families that she dubs "Plan B." Recognizing the contractual core of all families shows that Plan B is neither unnatural nor unworthy of legal recognition, just different. After telling her own moving and often irreverent story about becoming part of a Plan B family of two moms and a dad raising a child, Ertman shows that all kinds of people—straight and gay, married and single, related by adoption or by genetics—use contracts to shape their relationships. As couples navigate marriage, reproductive technologies, adoption, and cohabitation, they encounter contracts. Sometimes hidden and other times openly acknowledged, these contracts ensure that the people they think of as "family" are legally recognized as family in the eyes of the law. Family exchanges can be substantial, like vows of fidelity, or small, like "I cook and you clean." But regardless of scope, the agreements shape the emotional, social, and financial terrain of family relationships. Seeing the instrumental role contracts will help readers better understand how contracts and deals work in their own families as well as those around them. Both insightful and paradigm-shifting, Love's Promises lets readers in on the power of contracts and deals to support love in its many forms and to honor the different ways that our nearest and dearest contribute to our daily lives.

beauty salon partnership agreement sample: Combat-Ready Kitchen Anastacia Marx de Salcedo, 2015-08-04 Americans eat more processed foods than anyone else in the world. We also spend more on military research. These two seemingly unrelated facts are inextricably linked. If you ever wondered how ready-to-eat foods infiltrated your kitchen, you'll love this entertaining romp through the secret military history of practically everything you buy at the supermarket. In a nondescript Boston suburb, in a handful of low buildings buffered by trees and a lake, a group of men and women spend their days researching, testing, tasting, and producing the foods that form the bedrock of the American diet. If you stumbled into the facility, you might think the technicians dressed in lab coats and the shiny kitchen equipment belonged to one of the giant food conglomerates responsible for your favorite brand of frozen pizza or microwavable breakfast burritos. So you'd be surprised to learn that you've just entered the U.S. Army Natick Soldier Systems Center, ground zero for the processed food industry. Ever since Napoleon, armies have sought better ways to preserve, store, and transport food for battle. As part of this quest, although most people don't realize it, the U.S. military spearheaded the invention of energy bars, restructured meat, extended-life bread, instant coffee, and much more. But there's been an insidious mission creep: because the military enlisted industry—huge corporations such as ADM, ConAgra, General Mills, Hershey, Hormel, Mars, Nabisco, Reynolds, Smithfield, Swift, Tyson, and Unilever—to help develop and manufacture food for soldiers on the front line, over the years combat rations, or the key technologies used in engineering them, have ended up dominating grocery store shelves and refrigerator cases. TV dinners, the cheese powder in snack foods, cling wrap . . . The list is almost endless. Now food writer Anastacia Marx de Salcedo scrutinizes the world of processed food and its long relationship with the military—unveiling the twists, turns, successes, failures, and products that have found their way from the armed forces' and contractors' laboratories into our kitchens. In developing these rations, the army was looking for some of the very same qualities as we do in our hectic, fast-paced twenty-first-century lives: portability, ease of preparation, extended shelf life at room temperature, affordability, and appeal to even the least adventurous eaters. In other words, the military has us chowing down like special ops. What is the effect of such a diet, eaten—as it is by soldiers and most consumers—day in and day out, year after year? We don't really know. We're the guinea pigs in a giant public health experiment, one in which science and technology, at the beck and call of the military, have taken over our kitchens.

beauty salon partnership agreement sample: Unveiling the Muse Howard Philips Smith, 2017-12-18 Traditional Carnival has been well documented with a vast array of books published on the subject. However, few of them, if any, mention gay Carnival krewes or the role of gay Carnival within the larger context of the season. Howard Philips Smith corrects this oversight with a beautiful, vibrant, and exciting account of gay Carnival. Gay krewes were first formed in the late 1950s, growing out of costume parties held by members of the gay community. Their tableau balls were often held in clandestine locations to avoid harassment. Even by the new millennium, gay Carnival remained a hidden and almost lost history. Much of the history and the krewes themselves were devastated by the AIDS crisis. Whether facing police raids in the 1960s or AIDS in the 1980s, the Carnival krewes always came back each season. A culmination of two decades of research, Unveiling the Muse positions this incredible story within its proper place as an amazing and important facet of traditional Carnival. Based on years of detailed interviews, each of the major gay krewes is represented by an in-depth historical sketch, outlining the founders, moments of brilliance on stage, and a list of all the balls, themes, and royalty. Of critical importance to this history are the colorful ephemera associated with the gay tableau balls. Reproductions of never-before-published brilliantly designed invitations, large-scale commemorative posters, admit cards, and programs add dimension and life to this history. Sketches of elaborate stage sets and costumes as well as photographs of ball costumes and rare memorabilia further enhance descriptions of these tableau balls.

beauty salon partnership agreement sample: Economics of South African Townships Sandeep Mahajan, 2014-08-25 Countries everywhere are divided within into two distinct spatial realms: one urban, one rural. Classic models of development predict faster growth in the urban sector, causing rapid migration from rural areas to cities, lifting average incomes in both places. The situation in South Africa throws up an unconventional challenge. The country has symptoms of a spatial realm that is not not rural, not fully urban, lying somewhat in limbo. This is the realm of the country's townships and informal settlements (T&IS). In many ways, the townships and especially the informal settlements are similar to developing world slums, although never was a slum formed with as much central planning and purpose as were some of the larger South African townships. And yet, there is something distinct about the T&IS. For one thing, unlike most urban slums, most T&IS are geographically distant from urban economic centers. Exacerbated by the near absence of an affordable public transport system, this makes job seeking and other forms of economic integration prohibitively expensive. Motivated by their uniqueness and their special place in South African economic and social life, this study seeks to develop a systematic understanding of the structure of the township economy. What emerges is a rich information base on the migration patterns to T&IS, changes in their demographic profiles, their labor market characteristics, and their access to public and financial services. The study then look closely at Diepsloot, a large township in the Johannesburg Metropolitan Area, to bring out more vividly the economic realities and choices of township residents. Given the current dichotomous urban structure, modernizing the township economy and enabling its convergence with the much richer urban centers has the potential to unleash significant productivity gains. Breaking out of the current low-level equilibrium however will require a comprehensive and holistic policy agenda, with significant complementarities among the major policy reforms. While the study tells a rich and coherent story about development patterns in South African townships and points to some broad policy directions, its research and analysis will generally need to be deepened before being translated into direct policy action.

In these stories Adichie turns her penetrating eye to the ties that bind men and women, parents and children, Nigeria and the United States. In “A Private Experience,” a medical student hides from a violent riot with a poor Muslim woman, and the young mother at the centre of “Imitation” finds her comfortable life in Philadelphia threatened when she learns that her husband has moved his mistress into their Lagos home. Searing and profound, suffused with beauty, sorrow and longing, this collection is a resounding confirmation of Adichie’s prodigious literary powers.

beauty salon partnership agreement sample: 2010 ADA Standards for Accessible Design Department Justice, 2014-10-09 (a) Design and construction. (1) Each facility or part of a facility constructed by, on behalf of, or for the use of a public entity shall be designed and constructed in such manner that the facility or part of the facility is readily accessible to and usable by individuals with disabilities, if the construction was commenced after January 26, 1992. (2) Exception for structural impracticability. (i) Full compliance with the requirements of this section is not required where a public entity can demonstrate that it is structurally impracticable to meet the requirements. Full compliance will be considered structurally impracticable only in those rare circumstances when the unique characteristics of terrain prevent the incorporation of accessibility features. (ii) If full compliance with this section would be structurally impracticable, compliance with this section is required to the extent that it is not structurally impracticable. In that case, any portion of the facility that can be made accessible shall be made accessible to the extent that it is not structurally impracticable. (iii) If providing accessibility in conformance with this section to individuals with certain disabilities (e.g., those who use wheelchairs) would be structurally impracticable, accessibility shall nonetheless be ensured to persons with other types of disabilities, (e.g., those who use crutches or who have sight, hearing, or mental impairments) in accordance with this section.

Assertions are backed by countless psychological studies.” —The Boston Globe “Powerful and provocative . . . McGonigal makes a persuasive case that games have a lot to teach us about how to make our lives, and the world, better.” —San Jose Mercury News “Jane McGonigal’s insights have the elegant, compact, deadly simplicity of plutonium, and the same explosive force.” —Cory Doctorow, author of Little Brother A visionary game designer reveals how we can harness the power of games to boost global happiness. With 174 million gamers in the United States alone, we now live in a world where every generation will be a gamer generation. But why, Jane McGonigal asks, should games be used for escapist entertainment alone? In this groundbreaking book, she shows how we can leverage the power of games to fix what is wrong with the real world—from social problems like depression and obesity to global issues like poverty and climate change—and introduces us to cutting-edge games that are already changing the business, education, and nonprofit worlds. Written for gamers and non-gamers alike, Reality Is Broken shows that the future will belong to those who can understand, design, and play games. Jane McGonigal is also the author of SuperBetter: A Revolutionary Approach to Getting Stronger, Happier, Braver and More Resilient.

beauty salon partnership agreement sample: Someday Is Not a Day in the Week Sam Horn, 2019-03-12 Inspired me to ask myself why and to stop postponing the forgotten dreams. —Geneen Roth, #1 New York Times bestselling author of Women Food and God and This Messy Magnificent Life Full of inspirational insights and advice, lifehacks, and real-world examples, Someday is Not a Day in the Week is CEO Sam Horn's motivational guide to help readers get what they want in life today rather than someday. Are you: • Working, working, working? • Busy taking care of everyone but yourself? • Wondering what to do with the rest of your life? • Planning to do what makes you happy someday when you have more time, money, or freedom? What if someday never happens? As the Buddha said, "The thing is, we think we have time." Sam Horn is a woman on a mission about not waiting for SOMEDAY ... and this is her manifesto. Her dad's dream was to visit all the National Parks when he retired. He worked six to seven days a week for decades. A week into his long-delayed dream, he had a stroke. Sam doesn't want that to happen to you. She took her business on the road for a Year by the Water. During her travels, she asked people, "Do you like your life? Your job? If so, why? If not, why not?" The surprising insights about what makes people happy or unhappy, what they're doing about it (or not), and why...will inspire you to carve out time for what truly matters now, not later. Life is much too precious to postpone. It's time to put yourself in your own story. The good news is, there are "hacks" you can do right now to make your life more of what you want it to be. And you don't have to be selfish, quit your job, or win the lottery to do them. Sam Horn offers actionable, practical advice in short, snappy chapters to show you how to get started on

beauty salon partnership agreement sample: Norwich Karen Crouse, 2018-01-23 The extraordinary story of the small Vermont town that has likely produced more Olympians per capita than any other place in the country, Norwich gives “parents of young athletes a great gift—a glimpse at another way to raise accomplished and joyous competitors” (The Washington Post). In Norwich, Vermont—a charming town of organic farms and clapboard colonial buildings—a culture has taken root that’s the opposite of the hypercompetitive schoolyard of today’s tiger moms and eagle dads. In Norwich, kids aren’t cut from teams. They don’t specialize in a single sport, and they even root for their rivals. What’s more, their hands-off parents encourage them to simply enjoy themselves. Yet this village of roughly three thousand residents has won three Olympic medals and sent an athlete to almost every Winter Olympics for the past thirty years. Now, New York Times reporter and “gifted storyteller” (The Wall Street Journal) Karen Crouse spills Norwich’s secret to raising not just better athletes than the rest of America but happier, healthier kids. And while these “counterintuitive” (Amy Chua, bestselling author of Battle Hymn of the Tiger Mother) lessons were honed in the New England snow, parents across the country will find that “Crouse’s message applies beyond a particular town or state” (The Wall Street Journal). If you’re looking for answers about how to raise joyful, resilient kids, let Norwich take you to a place that has figured it out.
