Overview of Form 700 in Georgia

Form 700, also known as the Statement of Economic Interests, is a mandatory disclosure form required by the state of Georgia to promote ethical conduct among public officials and employees. This form is designed to capture financial information that could present a conflict of interest in decision-making roles. The form serves as a transparency tool, allowing the Georgia Government Transparency and Campaign Finance Commission to monitor potential ethical violations. Understanding the scope and purpose of Form 700 is critical for compliance with Georgia's ethics laws.

Purpose of Form 700

The primary purpose of Form 700 is to disclose sources of income, gifts, investments, and liabilities that might influence an official's duties. By revealing these financial interests publicly, the form helps maintain public trust and prevents unethical behavior. Filing this form is a legal requirement aimed at ensuring accountability and deterring corruption within state government entities.

Legal Basis in Georgia

Georgia's ethics laws, under the Georgia Government Transparency and Campaign Finance Commission, mandate the filing of Form 700 for designated officials and employees. These laws outline who must file, the type of financial interests to disclose, and penalties for non-compliance. Compliance with these laws through Form 700 fulfills legal obligations and contributes to a transparent government environment.

Who Must File Form 700

Not all public officials or employees in Georgia are required to file Form 700. The state has specific criteria to determine who must disclose financial interests. This section details the categories of individuals subject to filing and explains exemptions where applicable.

Designated Public Officials and Employees

Individuals holding certain elected or appointed positions in Georgia government, including state legislators, executive branch officials, and members of certain boards and commissions, are required to file Form 700. Additionally, candidates seeking these offices must also file the form as part of their candidacy requirements.

Exemptions and Special Cases

Some employees or officials may be exempt based on their job classifications or income levels. For example, certain low-level employees or those whose roles do not involve policy decisions may not be required to file. It is important to review the Georgia Government Transparency and Campaign Finance Commission's guidelines to determine filing obligations specific to each position.

Filing Deadlines and Requirements

Timely filing of Form 700 is critical to remain compliant with Georgia's ethics laws. This section explains the key deadlines and procedural requirements associated with the submission of Form 700.

Annual Filing Deadline

Most designated officials and employees must file Form 700 annually by April 15th. This deadline applies to the financial information of the previous calendar year. Meeting this deadline ensures that disclosures remain current and publicly accessible.

Filing Upon Assuming or Leaving Office

Individuals newly appointed or elected to a qualifying position must file Form 700 within 30 days of assuming office. Similarly, a final form must be submitted within 30 days of leaving the position. These filings help capture financial interests at the start and end of service to prevent conflicts of interest during transitional periods.

Filing Extensions and Penalties

Extensions for filing may be granted under certain circumstances, such as illness or unavoidable absence, but must be requested in writing before the deadline. Failure to file on time without an approved extension can result in penalties including fines or other disciplinary actions.

Step-by-Step Instructions for Completing Form 700

Accurately completing Form 700 requires attention to detail and an understanding of the information requested. This section provides a detailed walkthrough of each part of the form.

Personal Information Section

This section requires the filer's name, address, position, and contact information. Accurate identification is essential for proper record-keeping and public disclosure.

Income Disclosure

Report all sources of income received during the reporting period. This includes salary, business income, dividends, and any other financial gains. Be sure to list the source and amount as specified in the form instructions.

Assets and Investments

List all assets and investments held by the filer or their immediate family members that could present a conflict of interest. This may include real estate, stocks, bonds, and business ownership interests.

Liabilities

Disclose any debts or liabilities owed to entities that could influence the filer's official duties. This includes loans, mortgages, and other financial obligations.

Gifts and Honoraria

Report any gifts, honoraria, or other benefits received that exceed the threshold established by Georgia ethics laws. Transparency about gifts helps prevent undue influence on public officials.

Signature and Certification

After completing all sections, the filer must sign and date the form certifying the accuracy and completeness of the information provided. This certification is a legal attestation subject to penalties for false statements.

Checklist for Completing Form 700

- Verify personal and position information is correct
- List all sources of income with accurate amounts
- Disclose all relevant assets and investments
- Include all applicable liabilities
- Report gifts and honoraria as required
- Review the form for completeness and accuracy
- Sign and date the form before submission

Common Errors and How to Avoid Them

Filing errors can delay processing and may lead to penalties. This section identifies frequent mistakes encountered in submitting Form 700 and offers tips to prevent them.

Incomplete or Missing Information

Failing to provide full details in any section is one of the most common errors. Carefully review each part to ensure no fields are left blank unless explicitly exempt.

Incorrect Filing Deadlines

Submitting the form late or missing the filing window can result in sanctions. Mark deadlines clearly and plan submissions well in advance to avoid last-minute issues.

Misreporting Financial Interests

Underreporting or omitting financial interests can lead to compliance violations. Maintain accurate records throughout the year to facilitate proper reporting.

Not Signing the Form

Unsigned forms are considered incomplete. Confirm that the signature and date are present before submitting the form.

Submitting and Maintaining Records

The final step in the Form 700 process involves proper submission and record maintenance. This section outlines accepted methods for filing and recommendations for record-keeping.

How to Submit Form 700

Form 700 can be submitted electronically or by mail, depending on the agency's requirements. Electronic filing is often preferred for efficiency and confirmation of receipt. Always keep proof of submission for your records.

Record Retention Requirements

Filers should retain copies of submitted forms and any related correspondence for several years, as required by Georgia law. Proper record retention ensures availability for audits or verification if needed.

Access to Filed Forms

Completed Form 700 filings become part of the public record and are accessible for review. Transparency is a key component of the ethics laws governing these disclosures.

Chapter 1: Who Must File Georgia Form 700?

The Georgia Government Transparency and Campaign Finance Commission mandates Form 700 filing for a wide range of public officials. This includes, but isn't limited to:

State Officials: Legislators, executive branch officials, and members of state boards and commissions.

Local Officials: Mayors, council members, county commissioners, school board members, and other elected or appointed officials in municipal and county governments.

Specific Employees: Certain high-ranking employees within state agencies and local governments may also be required to file.

Determining Applicability: The key is determining whether your position meets the specified income and/or authority thresholds established by the state. Consult the official Georgia Government

Transparency and Campaign Finance Commission website for the most up-to-date information and specific criteria. Exemptions exist for some positions; careful review is essential. [Link to Official Website]

Chapter 2: What Information is Required on Form 700?

Georgia Form 700 requires comprehensive disclosure of financial interests. This includes:

Income: Reporting sources of income, including salary, bonuses, dividends, interest, and rental income, exceeding specified thresholds.

Assets: Detailed information on assets, including real estate, stocks, bonds, and other investments, again with value reporting above thresholds.

Liabilities: Reporting significant debts and liabilities.

Gifts: Disclosure of gifts received exceeding certain value limits.

Business Interests: Disclosure of ownership or involvement in businesses.

(This section would expand on each bullet point with detailed explanations and examples. It would also include specific guidance on handling complex financial situations.)

Chapter 3: Understanding Value Reporting and Asset Categorization

Accurate valuation is critical. Fair market value is generally used. For complex assets, professional appraisal may be necessary. Categorizing assets correctly is also vital. This requires a clear understanding of the definitions provided by the commission. (Detailed explanations and examples would be included here, addressing common challenges such as valuing closely held businesses or inherited property.)

form 700 instructions georgia: I Love Jesus, But I Want to Die Sarah J. Robinson, 2021-05-11 A compassionate, shame-free guide for your darkest days "A one-of-a-kind book . . . to read for yourself or give to a struggling friend or loved one without the fear that depression and suicidal thoughts will be minimized, medicalized or over-spiritualized."—Kay Warren, cofounder of Saddleback Church What happens when loving Jesus doesn't cure you of depression, anxiety, or suicidal thoughts? You might be crushed by shame over your mental illness, only to be told by well-meaning Christians to "choose joy" and "pray more." So you beg God to take away the pain, but nothing eases the ache inside. As darkness lingers and color drains from your world, you're left wondering if God has abandoned you. You just want a way out. But there's hope. In I Love Jesus, But

I Want to Die, Sarah J. Robinson offers a healthy, practical, and shame-free guide for Christians struggling with mental illness. With unflinching honesty, Sarah shares her story of battling depression and fighting to stay alive despite toxic theology that made her afraid to seek help outside the church. Pairing her own story with scriptural insights, mental health research, and simple practices, Sarah helps you reconnect with the God who is present in our deepest anguish and discover that you are worth everything it takes to get better. Beautifully written and full of hard-won wisdom, I Love Jesus, But I Want to Die offers a path toward a rich, hope-filled life in Christ, even when healing doesn't look like what you expect.

form 700 instructions georgia: Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil John Berendt, 1994-01-13 NATIONAL BESTSELLER • A modern classic of true crime, set in a most beguiling Southern city—now in a 30th anniversary edition with a new afterword by the author “Elegant and wicked . . . might be the first true-crime book that makes the reader want to book a bed and breakfast for an extended weekend at the scene of the crime.”—The New York Times Book Review Shots rang out in Savannah’s grandest mansion in the misty, early morning hours of May 2, 1981. Was it murder or self-defense? For nearly a decade, the shooting and its aftermath reverberated throughout this hauntingly beautiful city of moss-hung oaks and shaded squares. In this sharply observed, suspenseful, and witty narrative, John Berendt skillfully interweaves a hugely entertaining first-person account of life in this isolated remnant of the Old South with the unpredictable twists and turns of a landmark murder case. It is a spellbinding story peopled by a gallery of remarkable characters: the well-bred society ladies of the Married Woman’s Card Club; the turbulent young gigolo; the hapless recluse who owns a bottle of poison so powerful it could kill every man, woman, and child in Savannah; the aging and profane Southern belle who is the “soul of pampered self-absorption”; the uproariously funny drag queen; the acerbic and arrogant antiques dealer; the sweet-talking, piano-playing con artist; young people dancing the minuet at the black debutante ball; and Minerva, the voodoo priestess who works her magic in the graveyard at midnight. These and other Savannahians act as a Greek chorus, with Berendt revealing the alliances, hostilities, and intrigues that thrive in a town where everyone knows everyone else. Brilliantly conceived and masterfully written, Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil is a sublime and seductive reading experience.

The commission and the report were implemented after Congress passed an act in 2009 to review and prevent fraudulent activity. The report details, among other things, the periods before, during, and after the crisis, what led up to it, and analyses of subprime mortgage lending, credit expansion and banking policies, the collapse of companies like Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, and the federal bailouts of Lehman and AIG. It also discusses the aftermath of the fallout and our current state. This report should be of interest to anyone concerned about the financial situation in the U.S. and around the world. THE FINANCIAL CRISIS INQUIRY COMMISSION is an independent, bi-partisan, government-appointed panel of 10 people that was created to examine the causes, domestic and global, of the current financial and economic crisis in the United States. It was established as part of the Fraud Enforcement and Recovery Act of 2009. The commission consisted of private citizens with expertise in economics and finance, banking, housing, market regulation, and consumer protection. They examined and reported on the collapse of major financial institutions that failed or would have failed if not for exceptional assistance from the government. News Dissector DANNY SCHECHTER is a journalist, blogger and filmmaker. He has been reporting on economic crises since the 1980's when he was with ABC News.
